Weekly Reflections

• Based on weekly assignments and gradual induction
• Coaching Opportunity for supervisors
• Mandatory – evidence of coaching for TEA
Weekly To-Do’s and Reflections

• Gradual Induction based on one or two placements
• Use “to do’s” to Plan ahead with cooperating teacher
• Reflections Due Fridays by 6:00 pm
Coaching Comments

- Feedback by Monday at 6:00 pm
- Students read and respond to any questions or requests by Tuesday at 6pm

Notes:

- Supervisors and supervisees may adjust their deadlines, but be consistent and follow what you agree upon
- Urgent matters are dealt with immediately, not in the reflections
Reflections - Example

1. I am currently teaching...
   I am currently teaching science. I have completely taken over science for all 3 blocks.

   This started on Thursday. I wanted to quickly get my feet wet by taking over just one subject, then when my cooperating teacher and I are comfortable, I will be taking over social studies. I still feel that I have a lot to learn and the weeks are just flying by. I started the unit on the Ecosystem and so far, I am enjoying the lessons. I have realized that there is a lot more prep time involved in these lessons than I originally thought but I am fine with that. Since science was provided to the teachers in kits, it makes it easier to plan and teach lessons. What my cooperating teacher likes to do is add other lessons for the students, so they have a better understanding of the lesson previously taught. It’s not that she doesn’t like the kits lessons, she just feels that they are not getting enough information from them that would help them for the STAR test. I really like this kind of thinking because it is for the students benefit not just busy work.

2. My schedule for the coming week...
   My schedule for the coming week is to continue to teach science for all blocks and help with the business fair planning and prep for the lessons. These lessons will be next week, and I will assist during the lessons. In science I am covering the ecosystem and it is going really well so far. I will also take over the second step lessons in the morning during the homeroom class. These are similar to the 2nd grade lessons as far as watching videos and discussing the content but there less activities for the students to do. What I do like is that we can have deeper conversations about feelings and situations with them.

3. Overall this week went...
   Overall this week went well. I feel very overwhelmed with the amount of information that goes on throughout the day that I am needing to remember. The whole 3rd grade team has so many things that they are juggling with on top of preparing for the lessons for the day. With having to factor in INOVA data, checkpoints, business fair information, staff team meetings, parent conferences, accommodations and modifications for those who need them, and the list goes on. With all the information, I find it hard to keep up with everything. I am trying to keep a positive mindset as I go into my third week because I am working to start full teach during the following week.

4. I achieved success this week...
   I achieved success this week by forming my own small groups for FLEX time. During this time, the students are working on unfinished work, challenging activities for those that need it, and students that are having a hard time understanding a certain concept. During my FLEX groups we went over concepts that students were struggling with. For instance, we discussed the process of photosynthesis. One thing I should ask is that I should make sure to check on all the groups to make sure they are on task.
